I am writing this to respond to the question regarding confidential information of major corporations conveyed to me by MRA.

“Confidentiality is critical in regulating and managing the FSM's relationships with corporations and their owners. As in most major jurisdictions, we should, if permitted by the Board of the FSM corporation, disclose the name of that corporation established or registered in the FSM, whether the purpose is to avoid name duplication or to allow for claims or for other purposes. We should also disclose the address of the Registered Office (as provided in the Articles or otherwise updated) and the name and contact details for the Registered Agent (as provided in the Annual Report) or if that is not available, then the name and contact details of the Incorporator. However, we must not disclose other information about the FSM corporations, such as the names of officers, directors, shareholders, or any financial information.”

If you have any questions on this matter, please let me know. I stand ready to assist you and your clients in forming corporations in the Federated States of Micronesia, and look forward to a long and fruitful relationship over the coming years and decades.

Sincerely,
